POOLED TOBACCO

Of Green River District May Not Be Sold Before January 1.—Difference in Prices Fixed.—What Buyers Will Offer.

There is a strong probability now that the sale of the tobacco pooled with the Green River Tobacco Growers Association and the American Society of Equity and Home Warehouse Company will not be made before the latter part of December and possibly not until after the first of the year.

The samples for the 1912 crop have been on exhibition at the headquarters of the various associations for several days, and have been inspected by representatives of the American Tobacco Company, Gallagher, Imperial, John Ross and Continental, and representatives of other concerns. None of the buyers have offered to purchase any of the tobacco yet, and it is not likely that the associations will close any deal at any time real soon, as it is understood that there is some difference in the price that will be offered by the buyers compared with the price paid last year.

It is said that the Green River Association has fixed the price the same as that of last year, $6 to $10, but that from the samples shown of this year's crop, the buyers are not willing to pay that price, and likely not over $6 to $8.

It is admitted by the buyers and some members of the association that the tobacco is not as good as last year's crop, because it has neither the weight, color nor length, and for that reason the buyers claim that they should not be expected to pay the same price as last year.

The price has also been fixed by the American Warehouse Company, which is thought to be the same as that of last year, though L. N. Robertson, secretary of the association, refused to state whether or not this was true, but said that he would have something to give out to the public within the next few days.

The rain a few days ago brought out a short stripping season, and some of the tobacco was stripped and is ready for market, when the tobacco is again put in season. This, however, cannot be rushed to the market until the tobacco is sold, and just when the sale will be made is a question now that probably will not be decided for some time.—Owensboro Inquirer.

Methodist Church Notes.

Wednesday night the monthly church conference will be held and Brother Walker is especially desirous that all the men of the church as well as the officers be present. Reports from every department of the church will be given.

New druggists and fresh painting have brightened the class rooms of Mrs. Robert Pierce and Miss Susette Sawyer.

Miss Susette Sawyer will lead the League Sunday night.

The Clover Blossoms had a bright and joyous meeting Sunday with Miss Helen Kingsbury as leader. The topics were China and Table Manners. Interesting talks and papers were given on both subjects. Three new members were enrolled. Miss Marguerite Walker was made first vice-president. Miss Elizabeth Roberts, second vice-president, will have charge of the Baby Division. Babies will be enrolled by the payment of twenty-five cents which entitles them to five years membership.

Tit. For Tat.

Dr. A. H. Waterman, of Chicago, who the husband of Cissie Loftus, attended the wife of his pastor, who was dangerously ill. The patient recovered, and the pastor was grateful for the unselfish efforts of the doctor.

A month or so after his wife's recovery the minister met the doctor on the street.

"Doctor," he said, "I have had no ill from you. Please send me one."

"Oh, that's all right!" smiled the doctor.

"But, doctor," insisted the minister, "I feel strongly in this matter. If there is any one debt I owe it is to you for curing my wife. You were so good—" "Now look here!" interrupted the doctor. "Let it go. The fact is, I don't work any harder to keep your life out of Heaven than you work all time to keep me out of hell—and 'I'll call it square!'"

THOS. LEWIS DEAD.

He Voted Tuesday Morning and Died the Next Day.—Funeral Held at St. Rose Interment Takes Place at Hardinsburg.

Thos. W. Lewis died at his home in this city last Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. His death was unexpected, although his health had been failing rapidly since last May. Mr. Lewis was up town Tuesday and was one of the first to vote. He did not become ill until late that evening.

The funeral took place at St. Rose church at 7 o'clock Thursday morning. Father Henry officiating. Among those who attended from a distance were: Mrs. Frank McGary and Mr. Lon Rhodes, of Hardinsburg; Walter Rhodes and Herbert McGary, Misses Nannie and Nell Head, of Owensboro.

The body was taken to Hardinsburg for interment. Services were held in the church, conducted by Father Norman, and the burial took place in St. Romuald's cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Will, John and Nelse Jolly, Herbert and John McGary and Robert Rhodes. They were nephews of Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis was born near Hardinsburg, and was seventy-six years old. Forty-seven years ago he married Miss Isabelle Rhodes, whom he leaves with two daughters, Mrs. William Dorst and Miss Florence Lewis. He was the brother of George and Henry Lewis and Mrs. Lucy Brown, of Hardinsburg.

Pleasant Visitors.

The News had the pleasure of a visit from Mrs. Mary Brown, of Kirk, Miss Theresa Mattingly and Miss Malissa Pumphrey Saturday. Mrs. Brown has the school at Kirk with an enrollment of seventy-six scholars. She is in love with her work and the task to teach such a number does not seem hard to her. Miss Mattingly, who is quite a young teacher, has the McGavock school and boards at the hospitable home of the Pumphreys.

Noite's New Wagon.

J. C. Noite & Bro. have a new delivery wagon, three hundred pounds lighter than the old one. Sometime ago Mrs. Ben Duncan told the firm that their wagon was a horse-killer and that hustled them up to relieve their faithful servants. Kindness to dumb animals is becoming greater every day.

Boys Have Big Time

Celebrating the Victory.

Three nights last week the coming Democratic voters of Cloverport had a big celebration of the victory. They paraded the streets, blowing horns and giving hilarious hurrahs for Wilson. Thursday night they had a big bonfire and shot off powder by the wholesale.

Beautiful Flowers.

Mrs. Frank English and Miss Mildred Babbage are proud of the handsome chrysanthemums in bloom in their homes. They are the result of much attention and the admiration aroused by their size and quality is quite compensating. Mrs. English has the Queen Victoria and Miss Babbage has the Alice Roosevelt. Among the colors are garnet, lavender and yellow.

Preston Jarboe Improving.

Preston Jarboe, of Hardinsburg, who has been ill with rheumatism for five weeks, is improving. He is now able to get around with a chair and crutch. His many friends hope to see him at his place of business soon.

After the Postoffice.

There are several applicants for the postoffice at Glen Dean. Petitions are being circulated and there is quite a rivalry among the applicants. The present postmaster, T. L. Curtis, a Republican, is an applicant. Following are the names of the Democratic applicants: Jesse Howard, Ernest Robertson, Mrs. Joe Jones and Mrs. Florence Moorman.

New Engines.

The L. H. & St. L. R. R. Company's engines are being received here. Three came Monday, 31, 32, 33 and three more will follow soon from Philadelphia. Mr. Randall is very proud of them.

Fourth of July is a comedy depicting scenes at an old fashioned Fourth of July celebration.

MISS HANNAH BEARD

Miss Beard.

Friday a message was received by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Beard, of Hardinsburg, from their daughter, Miss Hannah Beard, saying that she had arrived safe and was delighted with the people and Texas.

Miss Beard's acceptance of a position in the educational circles of Lorena, Texas, is the culmination of thorough college training and a steadfast ambition to make use of her accomplishments. From childhood she was under an excellent music teacher in her home town, then she entered a Virginia college and last year took a post-graduate course in New York city. With diligence she perfected her gift as a Reader which will be her special work in the Lone Star State.

Besides, being capable of imparting understandingly that which she has attained in music and voice, Miss Beard has a rare personality. She is radiant with life, and yet, her disposition is characterized with sympathy and gentleness.

A sweet little lesson that Miss Beard brought home from the East is appealing to the girl who wants to be irresistibly charming. She said that whenever her anxiety or eagerness would become too intense that one of the New York instructors would say to her in a quieting tone: "Love, Joy and Peace." This is a glimpse of the culture and beautiful impressions that Miss Beard has had. Those who are sensitive to the true and lovely things of life may come in touch with them in the association with her, and the young girls of Texas who are to be her pupils, are fortunate indeed.

Miss Harbour.

The High School play Friday night will be the result of the efficient work of Miss Bessie Harbour. "The people have been so nice to me here, I would really like to make Cloverport my home," said Miss Harbour to The Breckenridge News. But that is "way up in Iowa" at Greenfield, and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Harbour of that place. She has studied in Chicago and Omaha, Nebraska. Her platform work has met with success in her home state and in Indiana, where her time has been spent since leaving college. "Fourth of July" at pressed with her refinement and simplicity of manner. She is a plain, common sense girl with artistic talents. Somehow, one likes her right at first, then she wins your encouragement and that brings her success. Miss Harbour is a reader and also accomplished in voice and piano.

Mr. Steel III.

Wesley Steel, one of Cloverport's oldest citizens, continues ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sam Conrad. Mr. Steel has been missed at the News office where he called faithfully every week to get The Western Record.

Louisville Club Sold to Louisville Men.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 9.—A deal for the sale of the Louisville club of the American association, which has been pending for several days practically was closed today. According to available information William Grayson, of St. Louis, has agreed to sell to William F. Kneebkamp, Capt. William Neal and O. H. Watson, local men, for $100,000. It is believed that John J. McCloskey, a Louisville man, will manage the team next season.

The Market.

The hog receipts of over 10,000, Monday caused a big drop in prices, tops selling at $7.55. Sheep and cattle were steady.

Little Girl Dies.

Edith Ward, the precious little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ward, died Sunday morning of heart failure. Her age was six years. The body was taken to Butler county for burial.

Her Money Either Way.

Mrs. Knicker—Why do you write home for more money? Mrs. Bocker—If George is having a good time he owes it to me, and if he isn't having a good time he has saved it.—New York Sun.

Thought once awakened does not again slumber.—Carlyle.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

The Woman Makes the Home

She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

The Sunday School is doing fine work since it was graded. The attendance is large, the teachers and pupils are more interested because the school is well organized and each has a definite task; then the character of work is much improved since the introduction of the graded series of lessons. The banner attendance is 147. We had 131 last Sunday. The scarlet fever scare in the west end of town kept some away. All of the classes have selected their class names and pins, and are organized for the work of the class. The organized classes, names and teachers are as follows: T. E. L. Class, (Timothy, Eunice, Lois), Mrs. Heyser, teacher; The Berean Class, Bro. Perkins, teacher; The Agoka Class, Bro. Nelson, teacher; The Fidelis Class, Miss Evelyn Hicks, teacher; The Baraca Class, Bro. Keitt, teacher; The King's Messengers, Mrs. Lightfoot, teacher; The Always Ready Class, Mrs. Cottrell, teacher; The Overcomers, Bro. Squires, teacher; The King's Daughters, Miss Maggie Wroe, teacher; The King's Sons, Bro. Lishen, teacher; The Cheerful Helpers, Mrs. Tousey, teacher; The Truth Seekers, Mrs. Chapin, teacher; The Up Streamers, Bro. Hawkins, teacher; The Wide Awakes, Mrs. Cordrey, teacher.

At the business meeting last Wednesday night a committee was appointed to make up a Thanksgiving box for the Baptist Orphans' Home at Louisville. There are one hundred in the home to be cared for by the Baptists of the State and the Cloverport church wants to share in this noble work. The members of the committee are: Mrs. Tousey, chairman; Mrs. Lightfoot, Mrs. Kramer, Mrs. Wm. Gibson, Mrs. L. B. Perkins and Mrs. Chapin. They will canvass the church this week and have the box ready to send off next week.

There will be a service in the interest of the Anti-Saloon League of the State at the Methodist church next Sunday night participated in by all the churches of Cloverport. Assistant Superintendent D. W. White, of Louisville, will be the speaker. There will be no service at the Baptist church at night on account of this service in the interest of temperance. At the morning hour the pastor will make a report of the meeting of the General Association which meets at Madisonville this week.

The pastor and Bro. Wm. Gibson will attend the General Association which convenes Tuesday night and continues until Friday noon. Each church in the Breckenridge Association is entitled to one messenger and five for the association at large. Bro. Gibson is the messenger from the church and the pastor from the association.

In the absence of the pastor Bro. Leonard Oelze will conduct the prayer meeting Wednesday night. There will be choir practice after prayer meeting.

The Women's Missionary Society was largely attended and delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Wm. Gibson Monday afternoon. Mrs. Conrad and Mrs. Cottrell read some interesting selections from the Mission Journal. Mrs. Lightfoot made her annual report as treasurer which showed a substantial year's work, and a balance of $85 in the treasury. Mrs. Fitch, the treasurer of the Foreign Mission fund, reported $25 sent off during the year, and $21 balance in the treasury. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. A. B. Skillman, president; Mrs. R. L. Oelze and Mrs. E. O. Cottrell, vice-presidents; Mrs. Fannie Tousey, secretary; Mrs. F. P. Payne, treasurer, and Mrs. J. N. Cordrey, treasurer of the foreign fund. The society meets with Mrs. Fitch next month.

Poor Spelling as a Lure.

The critical eye of a conscientious orthographer was attracted by the sign above a Third Avenue luncheon, and he went in to set the proprietor right. "Yes," said the luncheon man, "I know 'sandwiches' is wrong, but you see that sign attracts a lot of 'smart Alecks' into the store who want to teach me how to spell and after they come they usually stop long enough to order something. What'll you be?"—New York Tribune.

Men Need Help—Not Charity.

There is a higher duty than to build almshouses for the poor, and that is to save men from being degraded to the blighting influence of an almshouse. Man has a right to something more than bread to keep him from starving. He has a right to the aid and encouragements and culture, by which he may fulfill the destiny of a man, and until society is brought to recognize and reverence this it will continue to groan under its present miseries.—Channing.

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA.

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Waucho, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman.

"I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MATTIE HODNOT, Box 406, Waucho, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself.

"I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBERRY, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed.

"A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it.

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. BLYTHE, 1029 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

WILSON CARRIES FORTY STATES

DEMOCRATS WILL HAVE CONTROL OF BOTH HOUSES OF NATIONAL LEGISLATURE.

HIGHEST ELECTORAL VOTE

Victors Capture 433 Electors—Progressive Ticket is Second in Race—Republicans Have Two States.

Western Newspaper Union News Service. Cincinnati, O.—The election of Tuesday, November 6th, resulted in the victory of a Democratic presidential ticket for the first time in 20 years. The tabulated vote will be found in another column of this issue. For the first time in 18 years the Democratic party has captured the executive and legislative branches of the national government, and will be in position to take positive control of the situation March 4.

Woodrow Wilson, President-Elect.

Woodrow Wilson's vote in the electoral college will be 433, William Howard Taft will have 8, and Theodore Roosevelt is credited with 90. The Wilson vote marks a new record in national elections, although his popular vote probably will be less than that of any president elected since 1892.

In the overthrow of the Republican party, 18 Democratic governors were chosen out of the 27 voted for.

Majority in Senate. Enough state legislatures were changed from Republican to Democratic to overcome the Republican majority in the senate, the figures giving the victorious party a clear majority of two in the upper house of the national legislature, and Miles Polinder, elected from Washington as a Progressive, announcing that he will bolt the Republican caucus when he returns to Washington.

In addition to the election of successors to Democratic senators now sitting Democrats will displace Republican senators from Oregon, New Jersey, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, Delaware and Nevada, and will fill the vacancy in Colorado with a man of their choosing.

Bull Moose is Second.

When it became apparent that Wilson had swept the country main interest centered in the race between Taft and Roosevelt, the party winning second place gaining many advantages, such as representatives on nonpartisan commissions and on election boards. While the Bull Moose ticket undoubtedly has an aggregate vote in the country much greater than that of the regular Republicans, it came in third on state tickets in many important commonwealths, notably New York, Ohio and Illinois, and in the latter state the election board issue already has been decided in favor of the Republican organization.

The strength of the Socialist vote is one of the features of the election, especially in the industrial centers of the Middle West, where in more than one place Debs outran his three presidential rivals. The one national asset of the Socialist party, Representative Victor Berger, however, went down to defeat in his efforts to secure re-election from the Milwaukee district, and several Socialist city governments were rebuked by the voters by retirement from office.

President Taft captures two states—one in New England and the other in the far West. Roosevelt took one Eastern state, two from the Middle West and one from the far West and one Pacific coast state. Wilson took all the others.

Four States Give Women Votes. Additional interest was furnished in several states by the submission of woman's suffrage to the voters at the regular election. As a result four states, Michigan, Oregon, Kansas and Arizona were added to the six wherein women already had the ballot. With ten states giving to women equal political rights with men the friends of the movement claim that the nationwide success of woman suffrage is not far distant. Prohibition was submitted in West Virginia and Colorado, winning in the former and suffering defeat in the latter.

The Love Letters of a Confederate General
WE begin in the November issue a series of real love-letters written over fifty years ago by one of our national heroes to his sweetheart during the period of '61 to '65. This great general will go down to posterity as having accomplished one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the history of the world. He was as great a lover as he was a general, therefore these letters combine authentic history and exquisite romance. They sound a human note that no other work of literature has done in a decade; it is war, it is romance, it is history, it is literature. You simply can't afford to miss this wonderful series—an inside story of the Civil War now published for the first time and containing all the freshness of a contemporary happening. These letters will grip you hard, and hold your interest from first to last. Fill out the coupon and send it now before you forget it.

THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS,

JNO. D. BABBA, Editor and Publisher.

Issued Every Wednesday.

EIGHT PAGES.

CLOVERPORT, KY., WEDNESDAY, NOV 13 1912

Indian summer has brought out the street loafer again.

Good luck to the school entertainment Friday night that will bring it success and co-operation from everybody. It may be sure of it from The News.

Teddy says the Progressive party is here to stay, and that the battle has just begun. The party's 4,000,000 votes polled is unparalleled in the history of free government.

A solid Democratic South can now shake hands with a solid Democratic North. And this, as Gov. Woodrow Wilson says, will bring all the forces of the nation into active and intelligent co-operation and give to our prosperity a freshness and spirit and a confidence such as it has not had in our time.

THE MOST PROGRESSIVE THING IN AMERICA.

The New York Sun says that "Business is the most progressive thing in America today. There is work for everybody. Let everybody go to work. Not even a change in the national administration can prevent the coming prosperity."

LOUISVILLE AND HOME MERCHANTS.

The Cloverport and county merchants will have to get a hustle on them and advertise if they want to keep trade at home. The city merchants ads in our paper this week, and every week, are always appealing to the trade and get it. You have to let the people know that you have a business that you are enthusiastic over before they will take an interest in it.

A BREEDER OF TRUSTS

The protective tariff is the direct breeder of trusts and, therefore, of high prices. The proof is easily marshaled. Suppose there are twenty-five men or companies engaged in the manufacture of a certain article of general use, a necessity. They find that by adding 12 per cent of the amount each has invested to the production and sale cost they can sell it at about $2.50. Competition between these manufacturers keeps the price of that article at about that figure. Some financier down in Wall street, eager to make a few unearned millions by promotion, notices that there is a 40 per cent tariff on this specific article. Forty per cent of $2.50 is $1.00. He calls a meeting of these twenty-five independent manufacturers and points out to them that if they would consolidate all of their plants into one establishment under one ownership they could secure $3.50 for the article for which they have been getting $2.50, because the tariff keeps out foreign competition.

A trust is formed, and with competition eliminated, each concern, selling at $3.50, makes a profit of $1.00 more than before, or approximately $1.30. If the profit is four times as much as before, this justifies the trust, following the usual commercial ethics, in quadrupling its capital stock, each share then earning what one share of the old stock issued earned. In other words, the capital stock is watered three times its original value. This new stock, earning approximately 12 per cent is floated, and is distributed among hundreds of the "widows and orphans' class. The promoter and the original stockholders divide the loot between them. The public is thus permanently saddled with the responsibility of earning this increased amount upon the fictitious capital. If a reduction in the tariff is urged it is pointed out that the industry can not stand it, that it would not be able to earn reasonable dividends upon each share of stock and would have to either close down or cut the wages of the men. If the tariff had not been excessive in the first place, there would have been no incentive to balloon the corporation.

The theory of the protective tariff is that it insures the laborer in American mills getting a just wage, a higher wage than is paid abroad for the same work. If a mill hand gets $1 a day abroad and the American mill hand in the same occupation gets $2 a day, the manufacturer should be given a tariff that will represent the difference he pays out in wages, say the protectionists. The proper tariff is arrived at by computing what proportion of the production cost is paid out for labor, and then fixing the rate at the difference in percentage. The manufacturer is then made the agent of the government to collect this difference and hand it over to the laborer. In practical tariff-making, the manufacturers fix the tariff they think is needed, always fixing it plenty high enough, and then proceed to hire labor as cheaply as they can get it, often sending over 10 foreign countries for the workers. Let us see how this works out.

The government statistics for 1905 show that the value of the woolen manufactures of this country that year was $767,000,000. If these goods had all been purchased abroad and no tariff paid upon them they would have cost $404,000,000. The margin of protection in actual dollars, therefore, was the difference, or $363,000,000. That is, in order to insure American workmen proper wages, American consumers paid $363,000,000 more than they could have purchased these goods for in a free market. But the same census figures show that the actual labor cost of producing these goods was about $150,000,000, taking the percentage given of the total labor cost in this industry. If these workers were paid twice as much as were the workers in foreign mills, then the difference in labor cost was about $75,000,000. As the consumers were taxed $363,000,000 in order to pay this difference of $75,000,000 in wages, it isn't difficult to figure where the excess went—and that the wool tariff is excessive. Women as Well as Men are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root.

Including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers who found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. John Stiles Dies At The Age Of Seventy-One Years--Baptist Sunday School Graded--Many Social Notes Of Interest.

Paul Basham returned to his school in Monroe county accompanied by his sister, Miss Mary Belle, as far as Louisville. She returned Wednesday night.

Bill Gibson and Miss Mary B. Basham attended church here Sunday.

Johnson Stiles died here Thursday morning of Brights Disease. He was seventy-one years old. Five children survive him. He had been ill only a short time, and his death came as a great shock to his relatives and friends who were at his bedside when the end came. Mr. Stiles owned a restaurant and meat market here. He was a man of sterling business principles, one who was respected for his high sense of right, was kind hearted and obliging, and his jolly disposition was the secret of his friendship through life. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Jarboe in the M. E. church, interment was in the old Baptist cemetery by the side of his wife.

MANY WOMEN CARRY BANK ACCOUNTS

This bank has opened a Women's Department, that is, we are delighted to have women depositors. We know that women are better financiers than men, but they have never had an opportunity to develop their talent for saving and managing the funds of the household. Men have come first in making bank deposits and looking after the cash.

But the list of women who are taking advantage of the conveniences of banking facilities is growing and we are pleased to have our bank as their depository.

We cordially invite all women to carry their accounts with us.

CHAPTER X.

Instead of leaving the vicinity of the cabin after being liberated, Bedight closed the door and replaced the bar. Drifting back into the bushes, he waited. An hour passed and then came voices and rustling in the wood. Soon the game warden and two deputies hove into view. The warden's face was flushed with excitement as he strode along in advance of his men.

Approaching the door, he called out:

"Will ye surrender peaceable and come out o' there, or shall I come in an' git ye?"

From within there emanated no answering voice. Out in the bushes, twenty feet away, Bedight waited, tensely.

"Come on out; the door's unlocked," shouted the warden.

Still no answer.

"Go darn ye; I'll show ye. Come on in, fellers," bawled the officer, throwing open the door and dashing into the cabin, followed by his deputies.

With an agile spring, Bedight left the clump of bushes and dashed for the door. The warden saw him coming and sprang to meet him—but too late! Slamming the door shut, the mayor shot the bar home.

He could hear the strenuous objections of the prisoners as he hurried away, making a detour to a farmer's house, where he hoped to secure something to eat. A ruddy-cheeked farmer's wife fed him bountifully and protested at the unnecessary size of the coin he gave her for his dinner and a basket of provisions, with which he set out for the cabin.

Reaching the wood-chopper's hut, in which two hours previous he had been a prisoner, he rapped on the door.

"Whoever's there," cried an excited voice within, "let us out!"

"Break the glass in the window," directed the mayor, his face illumined with smiles, "and eat out of my hand!"

A growl of mingled disappointment and relief preceded the shattering of the glass. Bedight held his basket on his left arm and began passing provisions through the aperture.

"Good grub, this, boys," he chuckled. "I serve excellent meals at both my boarding houses. I'll bring you tobacco tomorrow night. Just you make yourselves comfortable. How would you like a deck of cards?"

It was dark when Bedight reached Squirrel Inn and slipped unobserved to his room.

When Jackie Vining came down at six next morning to take a constitutional before breakfast the mayor sat in an easy chair on the veranda, smoking his favorite pipe.

"Will you kindly tell Miss Mason that I am waiting her commands?" he asked easily, with no trace of resentment in his voice.

"I was going to liberate you this morning," she said, simply, trying to hide her surprise.

"Oh, I got out last night, thank you. I'm particular about my own bed. Never could sleep well in a strange bunk," laughing.

After breakfast Alice Mason, the girl appointed by the court to defend Bedight on the occasion of his trial, called him aside.

"As your attorney, I am led to offer you your freedom today. I want to go to Lakeville for some cold cream, and if you will ride to the Four Corners with me, I will let you escape to your own devices. It is not always that an attorney can vouch for his client, but I am willing to take a chance on you," confidently. "And besides, those girls have been badgering the life out of you. It's time somebody took pity," laughing.

The mayor put his lips close to the girl's rosy ear.

"Honest," he said, "hope to die, I've never had so much fun in all my life—but that bill business is dangerous, and I'd like to get through with the ordeal honorably. I can use today, and as a small expression of my gratitude, I'll send you the jolliest big box of candy in Chicago as I pass through."

"Thank you," she said, her eyes dancing. "I'll leave the selection to you."

An hour later Bedight, astride a good horse, was galloping toward Bordoni, a railroad crossing ten miles to the north. Arriving at the station he sent a telegram, ate a typical meal at a typical country hotel, and started back. He reached the cross roads at dusk and let his tired mount plod leisurely homeward.

Saturday morning broke clear and tense after a sweltering night. The sun was copper colored and the leaves upon the crest, where they were wont to bow and curtsy to the zephyr's breath, hung listless in the shimmering heat. At breakfast, none looked refreshed and Mine Host complained of drought. Pauline, the cook, whose eggs were always soft-boiled to a creamy elasticity and whose toast was ever golden brown and delicious, fretted the former into blue-black globules surrounded by leathery gelatine, while the latter was burned and desiccated to a hard-tack condition decidedly disappointing to her usually delighted followers. The thermometer, to all intents and purposes, was so basely unobtrusive as to seemingly have no other desire than to climb higher and higher in its relentless rise.

"Come on, Mr. Bedight," exclaimed Molly McConnell, "row me over to Waxelbaum's Point. I want to sketch La Veck's cabin, the remaining relic of what was once the oldest trading post in the state. It is tumbledown and ramshackle and will make a fine study. I was by there a week ago on a calm day and the reflection in the placid water was almost as realistic as the old log-pile itself. A photograph taken when I saw the cabin would puzzle the beholder to tell which was the cabin and which the reflection. Today promises to be still and bids fair to afford me an opportunity to get just the right atmosphere. I'll be ready in ten minutes."

She came down to the dock, her black eyes dancing in anticipation. Bedight packed her outfit in the prow of the boat along with the lunch basket, held the boat firmly against the dock as she put her dainty foot upon the stern seat, and dipped gracefully into position, a magazine under her arm and a camera slung across her shoulder.

As the mayor took the oars he looked at her—bareheaded, her lustrous black locks defying the sun, her full tempting lips shaping a perfect cupid's bow, a saucy little dimple on each side of a well-rounded cheek, and teeth as white as milk-coral through which the laughter trilled and rippled like a singing spring across its minny way.

Surely a man might well be sentenced for life to such a woman's whim, while but a day's service were as an hour in Naples after a hard passage!

Molly McConnell had one of those daring, unconventional temperaments that bespoke a woman of full blood and spirit, a being of beauty and grace and voluptuous constancy. To this man she would be all in all, refining queen of his heart, laughing at affinities, scoring jealousies, holding him secure with her mental and physical charms.

The lake was calm and through its mirrored depths long strands of weed and marsh grass could be seen streaming upward in the shallow places. Not even a ripple stirred the surface and the sun reflected from the sheening waters, glowed heatedly upon the faces of the two in the boat—the girl with hair like the night and eyes of liquid velvet, the man with a sentence to serve in the Garden of Eden with a pipkin as the forbidden fruit.

The mayor rested on his oars and mopped his sweating brow. The girl's eyes danced:

"And now," she babbled, "you are in a position to appreciate the arduous life of the galley slave. Row on, my man!"

"O, that this were the river of Life!" countered Bedight, matching the woman's frippery.

"One of the obligations imposed upon you by the Judge," he solemnly, "was not to propose marriage or play

Life Saver

In a letter from Branchland, W. Va., Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman says: "I suffered from womanly troubles nearly five years. All the doctors in the county did me no good. I took Cardui, and now I am entirely well. I feel like a new woman. Cardui saved my life! All who suffer from womanly trouble should give Cardui a trial."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

50 years of proof have convinced those who tested it, that Cardui quickly relieves aches and pains due to womanly weakness, and helps nature to build up weak women to health and strength. Thousands of women have found Cardui to be a real life saver. Why not test it for your case? Take Cardui today!

the role of, Lothario. I trust your intentions toward me are like the Christ-mas snow—simply another layer of white purity!"

"Pray do not tempt me, Eve," he said; "a boat is fully as perilous for loving as a fat for matrimony."

Her merry laughter rippled out across the water from a throat as shapely as an artist's model. Her neck, browned from the life at Squirrel Inn, was full and moulded free of hollow dips.

"O, you old Adam!" she giggled. "don't you know that the price of apples has gone up—away up—since our mothers quit sewing carpet-rags and spinning flax. It takes a man with a head these days to keep my lady gratified."

"Apples, say the physicians, are necessary to the human system. And I may point also to a higher authority who has said it is not good for man to dwell alone! As for the price, was there ever an Adam who thought of this?"

"Not until the baby needed shoes!" agreed the woman, letting her hand ripple the water over the rail. "Many an Adam has asked his Eve to fly with him and after the flight couldn't buy a curry of chicken wings in a Boston restaurant!"

The mayor smiled. "Marriage as it is practiced," he commented, "is a bigger gamble than the board of trade—and twice as interesting."

The boat glided onward across the sleeping waters, leaving a V-shaped ripple in its wake. Traversing the lake, Bedight pulled through a narrow neck that connected Goose Lake with the main body of Sylvan. The view was enchanting—pine, cedar and hemlock, birch and maple varied the shores and green bushes trailed their drooping tendrils in the cool waters. La Veck's cabin came into view, situated upon a knoll beside the lake, a picturesque pile of the lumber-jack days. About its tumbled sides the wild amplexus scrambled, and rag-weed flourished in the clearing. The mayor drew the skiff upon the shore, carried the girl's easel, box and camp chair to a spot designated and stood by for orders.

"Can you make coffee?" asked Miss McConnell, as she got out the canvas and prepared to begin the sketch.

"In these days of the new woman," he said, banteringly, "man has come to recognize in a kindlier light the ladylike art of cooking. Fair enchantress, I can make coffee fit for the gods, but woman's dainty hand must pour, else it loses its flavor."

"Very well," she said, "now run away and forget me until the coffee is boiling in the pot."

Bedight turned to the forest's fringe

"Your Diplomacy Is Admirable."

and began gathering firewood. When he called, she came promptly.

"Man," she said, "has caused many a divorce by not coming to dinner when he is called. Nothing so nettles a woman as to wait meals. Knowing this, I make haste."

"Your diplomacy is admirable," he congratulated, passing her the coffee pot.

Lunch over, Bedight packed the cooking outfit and replaced it in the boat. The sky was smoky in the west, smoky with heat that generated a strange restlessness among the quivering trees, while the air was surcharged with a portentous quietude that presaged a clash of elemental fury. A black cloud stood upon the rim of the lake and caused a look of concern in Bedight's eyes. A glance in Miss McConnell's direction showed the girl absorbed in her work. The mayor picked up a magazine and stretched himself upon the sward beneath a huge yellow birch. He was attracted from his story a half hour later by a shadow across the sun. Flurriedly springing to his feet, he scanned the sky. A mass of black with livid green patches and scurrying fore-runners of white froth lay like a monstrous curtain across the west, through which shot veins of gold like roots of mammoth trees. A deep rumble, bass in its intonation, rolled across the sky, warning the creatures of the earth that soon their master would be abroad in the land to wreck and destroy.

The woman, too, aware of the danger, sat gazing apprehensively at the disturbed sky.

"Oh, Mr. Bedight," she cried, with the veriest trifle of anxiety in her voice, "we must be going. The sky looks like a storm."

The mayor came over to Miss McConnell and, standing beside her, gazed analytically into the west.

"I think we will be safer here," he advised, quietly. "The storm will break before we can reach the Inn."

"But we cannot stay in this ruined hut. It leaks and the doors are gone," objected Miss McConnell. "Come on, let's be off."

The man hesitated.

"Don't you think it wiser to remain here until the storm is over? We are long ways from Squirrel Inn," counseled the mayor.

"But the wind will kick up the lakes until we can't get across for hours," cried the woman nervously.

"Sometimes," said Bedight, looking squarely at her, "a man is not as dangerous after dark as a wind storm by day."

"Nonsense!" exclaimed Miss McConnell. "Where's your sporting blood. Let's make a try for it."

The mayor turned and walked down to the boat. The girl followed and got aboard. He rolled up the sleeves of his light shirt and took the oars. As he did so, a drop of rain fell into the boat.

"Really, Miss McConnell," he protested, "this is unwise. You will not only get a good wetting but there is grave danger of—"

"I am neither sugar nor a coward," she said curtly. "Go ahead."

Bedight fell to his oars but his inspection of the sky over the girl's head as she faced him was far from reassuring. The clouds had taken more definite form and in their center, occupying the front of the great stage of the sky, hung a balloon-like mass of twisting matter. Bedight looked at the girl apprehensively, as she sat in the stern of the boat, taking the splashy drops of rain like a Spartan.

"Miss McConnell, we are going to have a bad storm presently. Don't you think it would be better to go back? Look at the sky behind you."

She turned her head. An exclamation of surprise broke from her lips. "If you think best, Mr. Bedight, I am afraid I have been foolishly—but I'm still satisfied to go on if you are," proudly.

A terrific clap of thunder directly overhead, coupled with a roar in the west, caused Bedight to hesitate. Instead of turning the boat, he headed for the shore. Behind them the storm was rushing with ten league wings and the waves leaped into an action that set the boat tossing like a speck upon a boiling pot. The day became as dark as night, save for the lightning flashes.

In a moment the storm broke. Amid the crash of rending trees, the demoniac shriekings of the wind, the terror of the lightning, the boat sped onward along the shore, one oar gone, the other useless in such a sea.

In the main channel no craft could have lived, but along the shore down which the two raced before the wind, the shell flew on the wings of the tempest.

White but hrve, frightened but in full control of her nerves, the girl clung to the boat. Straight toward the narrow neck of Goose lake, the craft bore like a wind-whipped ice-boat under a gale.

The mayor gritted his teeth. Once outside the smaller lake the course of the craft would be directly across the larger body of water.

He studied the girl opposite. Did she realize the danger?

"Mr. Bedight," she spoke regretfully, with an effort at bravery. "I—if we go through into Sylvan lake I—I'm sorry I didn't take your advice. It won't help much now to know that I've repented of my decision—but I—"

The mayor interrupted, shouting against the wind:

"I think we'll avoid it, and surely this must pass quickly."

Her answer was lost in the musketry and deluge that followed. The boat, half filled with water, lurched perilously, rolled like a cedar log and turned turtle!

Bedight felt himself carried forward with terrible speed and deposited upon the shore. He shook the water from his eyes, nestled him on the sand lay the girl, and a rod down the shore the boat hung upon the shingle.

She opened her eyes to the sound of his voice and the pressure of his hand upon her heart. Coughing, she sat up on the beach and rubbed the sand from her face and hands. Her clothes hung closely upon her, showing the outlines of her body. The rain still fell in torrents and ran down their necks in tiny rivulets.

"Oh!" she gasped, when her senses marshaled themselves from the bewilderment, "I've lost my sketch!"

The mayor laughed.

"If you had been a trifle less fortunate, you might not be worrying about that now—although I'm willing to admit you'd make a swell mermaid."

The storm was raging off in the east, the wind where they stood had ceased cracking its lungs, but a heavy sea was running on the lake and both oars were gone. Bedight looked about for shelter. Mounting the shore's bluff, he saw, off to the north, a hut still standing, evidently some fisherman's shanty. He beckoned the girl, who came up laughing.

"If I look as funny as you do with your clothes all sticking to you, the little birds will be in paroxysms tomorrow!" laughed the bedraggled woman, saucily, gazing brazenly at the man.

"Well," replied Bedight, returning the stare, "your hair is down, your shirtwaist is out at the back, your skirt is showing your limbs and your shoes squish when you walk. Otherwise you are dressed for one of Mine Host's summer feeds or evening hops—that is, dress appropriate for Squirrel Inn when there are no men to ensnare and all dancing parties are feminine."

"You're horrid!" she scowled.

"What are we going to do?"

"There's a hut over there. If there's any part of it that will burn, we will preserve the remainder and use it as a Garden of Eden supplied by a kind providence."

The woman hesitated. The Garden of Eden stuff in the morning was not then so pregnant with possibilities. Bedight set off ahead, apparently oblivious to her doubt.

Miss McConnell's face was clouded. What else was there to do? They were on the opposite side of the turbulent lake from the Inn, with an oarless, shattered, boat. The country about was rough and unsheltered? The night was upon them and the way to the Inn around Sylvan lake was too far for her to attempt walking it in the night, along the rough trails and through the mud-covered roads.

Bedight met her at the door.

"Welcome, Eve," he said, tensely. "Eden isn't such a bad place, after all. There's a stove and some flour and salt here, also matches, a dishpan, three chairs and a bunk. I'm going to see if the lake has yielded up our coffee pot and some coffee."

"I'll go," said Miss McConnell, soberly. "You start the fire and put the kettle on."

She went out abstractedly and walked down to the beach. What should she do? Was she sure of this man who seemed a gentleman, or would she need protection from her protector? If she had been more guarded in her bantering conversation of the morning, if she had not been quite so natural and unconventional.

"I'll Bring You Tobacco Tomorrow Night."

The Women's Candidate

She looked up and down the bench hurriedly as though she would run away, a sudden passion for flight coming over her. But where could she go? And there were snakes and bears in the woods! What should she do?

Bedight found her sitting upon the edge of the boat. She started as he drew near and took on a new reserve. He looked at her understandingly and dropped his joking mood.

"Here is the coffee," he said, producing a sodden mass, "but the pot must have followed the cyclone. Shall we go back?"

She looked up like a frightened child with that pleading look we see in the eyes of a cornered rabbit.

"Come," he said, kindly, "the pot boils and you will be needed soon to pour the coffee."

She arose without a word and followed him into the shack.

"And now," he said, "I am going away for an hour. There is plenty of wood here. Take off your wet clothes and dry them. When you have finished, call from the door. I will be on the beach. Do not be afraid. I will not be out of hearing."

"Thank you," she replied, and there was a more cheerful intonation in her voice.

Bedight sat upon a log and watched the white-caps whip themselves along the shore. The sky was clear and the moon came out from its nest behind the wood and glowed like a ball of crimson ochre. For an hour he sat thus, when he heard a step upon the gravel behind him.

"The coffee is ready, Mr. Bedight. If you are as hungry as I, we shall do ample justice to saleratus biscuits and coffee."

They sat down by the light of an oil lamp that contained two inches of kerosene.

"Oh, if Pauline could only see us now," laughed Miss McConnell—or Mine Host—"but it's good, anyhow, if you're hungry enough!"

"Add to all your other charms," said Bedight, lightly, "the quality of being a good cook!"

"The girl's face grew serious again. Bedight noted the varying shades, but paid no outward heed. The rough fare and the abominable coffee were palatable and both felt better after eating."

They sat quietly after the meal, the oil burning lower and lower in the lamp. Outside a wolf barked and in the margin of the wood a night bird flew by with a raucous cry.

"And now," said the mayor, jovially, "it is the curfew hour in Eden. The last one in bed won't have to blow out the light, for it is going out of its own accord."

He arose and, taking off his coat, rolled it into a pillow.

"Lie down here and rest a while," he said, gently.

"Please, Mr. Bedight," replied the girl, her face flushed and her eyes turned away.

The mayor arose and stood before her.

"Miss McConnell," he spoke quietly, reassuringly, "I had a mother once. She was sweet and pure—and—and she died." The mayor's voice broke for the moment. "She—she taught me to respect womanhood. She taught me to be open and simple and sincere. The situation in which we find ourselves is trying only as we make it so. Let us be sensible and direct. There is the bunk. Lie down and sleep, if you can. I shall stretch out upon the floor and try it myself. You need have no fear that—"

"Forgive me," she cried, laying her hands upon his. "I have no fear—nothing but explicit trust and confidence."

Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a quick and reliable remedy for lameness in horses and other farm animals.

"Sloan's Liniment surpasses anything on earth for lameness in horses and other farm animals. I would not sleep without it in my stable."

MARTIN DAVIS, 402 West 19th St., New York City.

Good for Swelling and Abscesses. Mr. H. M. Glines, of Lawrence, Kan., R. F. D. No. 3, writes: "I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one on her leg. Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it all the time for all kinds of small swellings and for everything about the stock."

is a quick and safe remedy for hog cholera.

Governor of Georgia uses Sloan's Liniment for Hog Cholera.

"I heard Gov. Brown (who is quite a farmer) say that he had never lost a hog from cholera and that his remedy always was a tablespoonful of Sloan's Liniment in a gallon of slop, decreasing the dose as the animal improved. Last month Gov. Brown and myself were at the Agricultural College building and in the discussion of the ravages of the disease, Gov. Brown gave the remedy named as 'unfailing.'"

At daybreak Bedight sighted a boat bearing in from Squirrel Inn. He hailed it and soon the two disheveled adventurers were enroute to the hotel. Jackie made much ado over Miss McConnell, who drew her aside, the roses in her face redder than the color of the Magna Charta.

Late in the afternoon Bedight stole away to the cabin and made his promise of the Friday previous, but the prisoners were in a sullen mood and demanded to be liberated.

Monday morning found him assiduous in his attentions to Cleo Summers, who brought out a copy of "Lancelot" and beckoned him to a shady spot in the wood not far from the Inn. Seating herself on the grass, she handed him the book.

"As I understand it you are doing penance. This being true, I am compelled to ask you to read this book to me. It has been read to me several times prior to this occasion," the red mounting to her cheeks, "but not recently, which is a sure sign that I am growing less attractive. Possibly I am approaching spinsterhood—and before I reach that goal, I desire to hear once more this thriller of love's young dream."

Bedight took the book. "I read this to a girl once, I—"

"Of course," interrupted Miss Summers, "there isn't a man living who can read who has not at some time or other had his dream as he read this tale to a woman with eyes like the skies and lips like the red, red cherry!"

STORIES OF BRET HARTE.

His Dislike of Social Duties and Mere Literary Friendships.

Mr. Moncure Conway in his autobiography gives an amusing reminiscence of Bret Harte's proneness to escape from what are known as "social duties." Mrs. Conway "received" on Monday afternoons, and Bret Harte had told her that he would be present on a particular Monday, but he failed to appear, much to the regret of some persons who had been invited for the occasion. "When, chancing to meet him," writes Mrs. Conway, "I alluded to the disappointment. He asked forgiveness and said, 'I will come next Monday, even though I promise.'"

He had a constant dread that his friendship or acquaintance would be sought on account of his writings rather than for himself. A lady who sat next him at dinner without learning his name afterward remarked, "I have always longed to meet him, and I would have been so different had I only known who my neighbor was." This, unfortunately, being repeated to Bret Harte, he exclaimed: "Now, why can't a woman realize that this sort of thing is insulting? * * * If Mrs. B. talked with me and found me uninteresting as a man, how could she expect to find me interesting because I was an author?"—Henry Childs Merwin's "Life of Bret Harte."

The boy's appetite is often the source of amazement. If you would have such an appetite take Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only create a healthy appetite, but strengthen the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

CURIOUS INSURANCE.

Some of the Queer Risks Taken by the Brokers at Lloyd's.

They will take any risk at Lloyd's in London. It should be understood that this great corporation has nothing to do with it, but that the brokers issue policies as individuals. Here are a few specimens of risks actually insured:

The uncle of a rich heiress took out a policy for 10,000 guineas against her eloping with a certain man before a specified date. He paid 1,000 guineas premium, and the girl did not elope. So the broker was in 1,000 guineas.

A young man sued by a girl for damages for breach of promise to marry paid 800 guineas for a policy covering any amount of money the jury might award to the plaintiff. It gave her £700, so the broker made more than £100 profit.

A cablegram arrived at the office of a shipowner stating that one of his steamers was on the rocks in a dangerous place. The owner took out a policy for £5,500, to be paid to him if the ship were lost. He paid for this a premium of £5,000. The ship was saved, so he lost the money.—New York World.

For dyspepsia, our national ailment, use Barlock Blood Bitters. Recommended for strengthening digestion, purifying the blood. At all drug stores. $1.00 a bottle.—Adv.

The English King.

The king of England has no legislative veto. He must sign his own death warrant if the two houses unanimously send it to him. It is a fiction of the past to ascribe to him legislative power. He has long ceased to have any. The prime minister is the chief executive of the British constitution. The king has the right to be consulted, the right to encourage, the right to warn, provided he can find anybody that wants to consult him or anybody that cares to be encouraged by him or anybody that will stop to be warned. In other words, the king is a "figurehead," or, as it has been more respectfully expressed, he is the "ornamental" rather than the "useful" part of the British constitution.—New York American.

Seventh Appellate District—For Appellate Judge. Charles Cyrus Turner, of Montgomery was elected to fill vacancy on appellate bench.

Bible Was Put into Rhyme. Versifications, not only of the Psalms but of other books of the Bible, were numerous in the sixteenth century. One of the most prolific versifiers was William Hunniss, who, under such fanciful titles as "Seven Sobs of a Sorrowful Soul for Sin," "A Handful of Honey-suckles," "A Hivest of Honey," etc., published a number of rhyming versions of Genesis and Job, which are now worth their weight in gold to the bibliomaniacs.

Buy Land and Make Money

Your easiest way to make money is to buy land in Breckenridge county. Western land has had its day. Old Kentucky is the ideal spot in all this country for climate, for good crops, for good living, for good people, and good, long life. Breckenridge county has better and cheaper facilities for reaching the markets—two railroads and the Ohio river. The people are prosperous and land is cheap. Now is your time to buy. Land has advanced from 25 to 50, per cent in the last ten years. In another ten years, land will leap another 50 per cent. Get in now while the start is cheap.

"There could be no better medicine than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My children were all sick with whooping cough. One of them was in bed, had a high fever and was coughing up blood. Our doctor gave them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the first dose eased them, and three bottles cured them," says Mrs. R. A. Davidson, of Lexington, Miss. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Dr. J. B. Weaver

Chosen President.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 2.—Resolutions thanking the people of Paducah for their hospitality and the stewards for the use of the Broadway Methodist and the election of officers to serve the ensuing year, marked the close of the forty-seventh annual convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association tonight. A number of excellent addresses were delivered today. The officers elected are: President, J. B. Weaver, of Louisville; vice-president, Rev. R. H. Crossfield, Lexington; treasurer, Clarence Watkins, Louisville; field workers, Rev. T. C. Gabauer, of Henderson, and W. J. Vaughan, of Louisa; assistant elementary superintendent, Miss Maude L. Dance, of Louisville; office secretary, Miss Frances L. Grigsby, Louisville; general secretary, Rev. George A. Joplin, Louisville; superintendent of organization, Rev. James F. Price, Marion.

"It is a pleasure to tell you that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best cough medicine I have ever used," writes Mrs. Hugh Campbell, of Lavonia, Ga. "I have used it with all my children and the results have been highly satisfactory." For sale by all dealers.—Advertisement.

A GENUINE SERVICE.

"I believe," says an old subscriber, "that every time The Youth's Companion enters a home it does that home a genuine service." That describes the purpose of the publishers' exactly. The paper is not filled with mischievous or idle thoughts to fill an idle hour. It provides healthy pastime, recreation that builds up. It is to the minds of eager and impressionable young people what sound athletics are to their bodies.

At a cost of less than four cents a week The Youth's Companion opens the door to a company of the most distinguished men and women in America and Europe. Whether they are revealing the latest discoveries in science, or describing great industrial achievements, or telling of their wanderings in strange corners of the world, or feeding the imagination with rare stories, they are giving Companion readers the best of themselves.

Seven serials at least will be published by The Companion in 1913, and nearly 200 other complete stories, in addition to some 50 special contributions, and a treasure-box of sketches, anecdotes, expert advice as to athletic sports, ideas for handy devices round the house, and so forth—long hours of companionship with the wise, the adventurous and the entertaining. Announcement for 1913 will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request.

Every new subscriber who sends $2.00 for the fifty-two weekly issues of 1913 will receive as a gift The Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913, the most exquisite novelty ever offered to Companion readers; also, all the issues of The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1912, free.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
144 Barkley St. Boston, Mass.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Ernest Haswell in Brussels

Ernest LaParade went to play on his violin for Cesar Thompson yesterday and was admitted to the Royal Conservatory without examination. Mrs. LaParade is proud of us all and will be our press agent when we go back to America—she says. Surely, I am enjoying the work and association. If only Rob and J. could be here. Little old Coleman would enjoy the soldiers, who look like they were dressed for a negro minstrel. Everywhere, on all corners and in the stores, one sees soldiers and priests. The two come and go together and where they are, there is poverty and oppression. Some day, there will be a little French revolution here. The present king is named Albert.

One of the largest libraries in the world is located here in Belgium. I was over to arrange for a card last week. There is a large collection of English books. Within five minutes walk from our flat is St. Gilles (san geel) park. The entire city is full of very beautiful laid out parks and the botanical gardens here are wonderful. The name of our suburb is St. Gilles. Brussels itself is very small, extending only to the old city walls which have been torn away and laid out in Boulevards, along these broad streets, all lined with six rows of trees, are separate drives for carriages, pedestrian and equestrian, also one for wagons. In width they are about six hundred feet. This extends all around the city, our street is just off the Boulevard Waterloo. There are six or eight suburbs as large as Brussels itself and under a more separate government. The hills are very similar to those around Cincinnati.

ARE YOU A SALARIED MAN?

Do you live on a certain allowance each month, or do you "have money to spare?" Do you have to figure close to make ends meet or do you waste money on idle pleasures?

In any case you cannot afford to be without a bank account. No matter how small your salary you can and SHOULD have a little here and a little there in order to provide for the future. If you spend your money foolishly, you can soon get out of the habit by depositing a little each week or each month.

Persistent saving, with the liberal interest we add, will make the account grow surprisingly fast.

$1.00 will do to start with.
